

INTRODUCING ELIFINTY

Elifinty is an ethical start-up which uses technology to tackle real life problems surrounding debt across the UK. Our customer engagement platforms have been created to revolutionise the debt management cycle, making it easier for creditors and debt advisors to help those who need support. The average UK household debt currently stands at £63,000 and is rising. Elifinty is on a mission to create a world free from problem debt.

Our end-to-end customer engagement platforms connect households with debt advisors to find the best solutions towards long-term financial resilience. Our technology streamlines and simplifies the journey for customers to seek free debt advice, incorporating smart technology and open banking to make it even easier to provide the required data and give advisors a holistic overview of a clients situation.

Community Outreach with EliHub

Driving positive change and building a better, thriving community is our priority, which is why we are reaching out to the local communities we serve, with our latest project – Eli Hub. The Eli Hub project is funded by Impact on Urban Health and delivered with our partners (and shared office colleagues) at Rooted Finance. Focusing on collaborating with local organisations in Lambeth and Southwark Eli Hub offers access to localised, expert free debt support to residents. Our initiative has already gained great traction and we want to continue working with as many organisations as possible to continue serving the most vulnerable in the UK.
